CONOCO PHILLIPS

Project: Surmont Contractor: GJ Cahill

The UA members are making the necessary commitments and sacrifices needed to ensure their organization is an organization they are proud to be part of; an organization that works hard to be the first choice of Industry when it comes to putting in pipe.

The UA made the tough decision to take back the Pipeline Industry five years ago. We had lost it because a small group of members decided to work both union and non-union. The UA charged these members and expelled them. We now have 80% of the big inch work manned by real UA members.

It is unfortunate that GJ Cahill a union contractor in eastern Canada has chosen to work non-union in Alberta, however that is their choice. We also have choices and will work very hard to insure those who work with us receive our full support. Those who do not, well we always reward our friends, that is the UA way.

This is a very serious matter.

Note: If you are a UA Member employed on this site by a contractor not signatory to a UA Collective Agreement in Alberta you are in violation of the UA Constitution. You will be charged and possibly expelled if found guilty. This includes supervisors and those who have chosen to use the talents they have acquired with the UA to benefit non UA signatory contractors.

Local 488 has calls going unfilled at this time. Contact them immediately as there is no need for you to work on this site outside of the United Association agreement.

Fraternally yours,

John Telford
Director of Canadian Affairs, UA
